From the Production Line to the Main Office: Josh Greulich Does It All

Graduate: Class of 2000    Occupation: National Branch Auditor/Trainer
By Landon Greulich, Spring 2010

From Phoenix, Arizona, to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Josh Greulich-national branch auditor/trainer for Jasper Engines and Transmission - never knows where he will be next. Josh's career with Jasper Engines started while attending Forest Park High School. He really did not decide to pursue a career with the southern Indiana center company until the winter of his sophomore year in college. Up until that point he had always aspired to pursue a career as an accountant, but after an internship with Jasper Engines, he knew this would not fulfill his career interests. He said, "I knew that I could not be an accountant. It was not exciting enough for me."

While Josh attended high school, he excelled in the arts, academics, and athletics. He has many memorable experiences from high school: being a drum major in the band, starring in musicals, and participating in wrestling and tennis. However, his fondest moment occurred during his senior year of tennis when he was received Academic All-State recognition. After he graduated from DePauw University with a Bachelor of Arts in Economics and Management in 2004, he knew he wanted to be involved in everyday work with Jasper Engines. Believe it or not, Josh's first official interview after college happened in a hallway of the office.

Over his final spring break in college, his plans were solidified; he would move to Phoenix, Arizona, to open a new Jasper Engines branch. When asked about his career choice Josh says, "I don't know what I want to do for the rest of my life, but I do know one thing, I want to be a lifer at Jasper Engines. I don't know what is in store for me, but I am excited to see what the future holds."

After two years of enduring hardships of being away from family and friends, Josh moved back to Dubois County. In the four years he has been back, he has held six different jobs in the corporation. In his new job he seems fulfilled. He says about his job, "I also am ensuring the uncertainty of my position. This is in a good way, though. I never know what or where my position might take me. One day I am sitting at my desk, and the next day I am planning the moving of a company from Philly to Indiana and told to pack my bags because you will be there for the next 2 or 3 months. I like the fact that I am flexible enough to be able pick up at a whim's notice and go to benefit the company." This could all change in the next year. In November, Josh proposed to the woman of his dreams. Traveling may need to be put on hold so he can support his family, but for now he keep on traveling for the benefit of his job and company.

Josh's advice to future Forest Park graduates is “Don't be afraid to break out of your comfort zone. Try new things. Travel while you can. There is so much more out there than our little corner of the world. But that being said come back and use your new found knowledge to grow our community. You may think that Dubois County is small and boring, but unless you come back and help to reenergize the communities after graduation, your home may not be around for long. I always thought I would leave and never come back, but when I left, I longed to be back. There is nothing better than being part of a small community and knowing that you make a difference to it.”
